

How to submit your manuscript to Plains Anthropologist

Most of the information you need to submit a manuscript to Plains Anthropologist can be found online. This document helps you get to the online information, but also provides other necessary information and select items of guidance to make the process a little easier.

Manuscript submission guidance

- At the Plains Anthropological Society website, log in as a member. If you are not a member, you can't log in. Consider joining the Plains Anthropological Society.
- Select Online Journal Access under your username to the right of the screen, and then click Digital Access to access the Plains Anthropologist online through the Taylor and Francis website.
- On the left select Instructions for Authors. Most of the information you need is there.

Style Guides

American Antiquity style guide

- Plains Anthropologist follows the most recent online style guide of American Antiquity.
- To access this document, enter "American Antiquity style guide" in your browser's search field, or select this link American Antiquity style guide.
- The style guide begins in section 3.0, but the portion of the style guide that is relevant to Plains Anthropologist starts at Section 3.2.1, Title Page.

Other style guides (used for consistency in grammar and spelling)

- The Chicago Manual of Style, seventeenth edition, 2017, University of Chicago Press
- Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, eleventh edition, 2014, Merriam-Webster, Incorporated, Springfield, Massachusetts

Submit your manuscript and figures through Editorial Manager

- At the Plains Anthropological Society website, log in as a member
- Select Online Journal Access under your username to the right of the screen, and then click Digital Access to access the Plains Anthropologist online through the Taylor and Francis website.
- Select the tab Submit an article. This will take you to Editorial Manager, where you submit your information and your manuscript, figures, and supplemental materials.

Having trouble with Editorial Manager? Contact us, we'll help.
Email us at editor@plainsanthropologicalsociety.org

Quick tips and requests from the editorial team

Submitting the manuscript in Editorial Manager

- Submit the manuscript with tables, table captions, and figure captions as one file, a Microsoft Word document
- Submit figures as additional, individual files, don't embed them in the manuscript
- Submit supplemental materials as additional, individual files

Preparing the Manuscript

Your manuscript file should be compiled in the following order:

- Title page
- Abstract (up to 150 words)
- Keywords (see below)
- Main text
- Acknowledgments
- Declaration of interest statement
- References cited
- Table(s) with caption(s) on individual pages
- Figure captions as a list
- Short biographies of all authors

Keywords: You can have up to six keywords and they can contain multiple words.
Example: Munkers Creek, Middle Archaic, Flint Hills, Permian chert, mid-Holocene climatic optimum, use-wear

Figures

- Figures should be 1200 dpi for line art, 600 dpi for grayscale and 300 dpi for color at a printable size—maximum dimensions are about 12 by 20 cm
- Figures should be supplied in EPS, PS, JPEG, GIF, or Microsoft Word (DOC or DOCX) format
- You can submit color figures. The journal is allowed sixteen color figures per issue at no extra charge. If using color in a figure will make it clearer to the reader, consider submitting it as a color figure. If there are more than sixteen color figures in an issue, the editor will contact you to discuss options.

Supplemental material

Presenting raw data is important but it takes valuable space, and the Society is charged for pages over 400 in a given volume. Most of the world is online, so elect to upload lengthy tables and appendices as well as video or audio recordings as supplemental material. These materials will be part of your submission but available solely online.

Many file types are allowed, and they are uploaded as submitted—the author does not get proofs to review for supplemental material.

Suggestions to help get your manuscript accepted more quickly

- Follow the style guide
- Check the references cited in text against the citations listed in the References Cited section, and vice-versa
- Use the serial (or Oxford) comma: Lions, tigers, and bears
- Except as noted in the style guide, avoid abbreviations, especially if they are used only once or twice. Spell out state names.
- Avoid quotes, paraphrase instead.
- Consult the American Antiquity style guide for guidance on the format to be used for first published presentation of the results of radiocarbon assays
- When first mentioning a site, provide both the name (if the site has a name) and the site number
- Measurements are presented in the metric system, using their abbreviations and no periods (but see the style guide for exceptions)
- Some preferred formatting examples:
 - Washington DC, PhD, Master's thesis
 - AD 1601, 5800 BC (Chicago Manual of Style 2017, 9.34)

Once accepted, manuscripts are published online and available to members through the Society website. To get there:

- At the Plains Anthropological Society website, log in as a member
- On the left select Taylor and Francis Online,
- Under Online Journal Access at the top of the page select Taylor and Francis Online again
- Select Latest Articles under List of Issues

When will my published manuscript appear in print?

At any given time there are about 15 manuscripts that are under review and about the same number accepted and online but not yet assigned to an issue. Considering that there are three to four article reports in a normal issue, plus book reviews, obituaries, and messages from the president or the editor, and that one of the four issues typically is a memoir, it will take a couple of years before an accepted article is in print. But remember, once your article is online, it is considered as being published, and articles go online soon after being accepted.